Lan Su Chinese Garden is a Suzhou-classical-style Chinese garden specifically designed for Portland's historic Chinatown and to serve a 21st century American audience. Lan Su's designers from the Suzhou Institute of Landscape and Architectural Design state Lan Su is the best classical Chinese garden outside of China. In designing Lan Su, they incorporated all of the following:

- Aesthetic traditions from Suzhou's famous historic gardens dating back over 1,000 years
- Visitor amenities for a 21st century public audience such as an entry courtyard, ticket booth, gift shop, Tea House, and restrooms
- The history and current features of Portland's Chinatown, including borrowed scenery (jiejang) from nearby buildings
- The wide diversity of Chinese plants available from Oregon's prolific nursery industry making Lan Su a genuine Botanical Garden with over 270 specialty species
  - Modern American safety standards

Job Description

Job Title: Garden Curator

Department: Horticulture – Director Level

Reports to: Executive Director

Purpose of Position: To maintain and preserve, expand, document, research, and promote the Garden’s plant collection, and educate the public and Lan Su Chinese Garden members about the botanical collection and – through the collection – Chinese culture.

The plant collection at Lan Su presents hundreds of plants species that are native to China. It is home to more than fifty specimen trees, many rare and unusual shrubs and perennials, and curated collections of Magnolia, Peony, Camellia, Rhododendron, Osmanthus and Bamboo.

Lan Su's mission in developing this unique and diverse living collection is twofold. First is to provide visitors with a microcosmic view of the wealth of China's native flora. Second, the botanical collection in the garden provides an invaluable tool for explaining customs and traditions rooted in human interaction with plants for thousands of years.

Position Scope:

The Garden Curator is responsible for the superior health of Lan Su’s rare plant collection at both the garden and greenhouse location.

The Curator leads a team including the Greenhouse Manager, Horticulturist and trained volunteers in the care and maintenance of the collection in a manner consistent with current best practices, traditional Chinese garden design and the high standards of a public garden.

The Curator sets a vision for the department’s future growth, implements annual plans and develops new initiatives in line with the garden’s organization-wide strategic goals.

The Curator is responsible for the financial management and all administrative duties for the department.

The Curator is responsible for all related educational materials, programs, displays and tours, as well as, providing expert advice and information to members, visitors and the media.

This position works collaboratively with the Events & Program Director, Facilities Director and other organizational peers.

Essential Responsibilities:

15% Planning

- Work with the Executive Director, Suzhou Landscape Design Institute and other relevant stakeholders to develop a long-range vision of the plant collection of Lan Su Yuan.
- Within that vision, develop and maintain short-range plans for the Horticulture department.
- Develop plant collection policy and define guidelines for acquisitions, accessioning, inventory, mapping, and de-accessioning.
- Prepare periodic planning documents, survey, and evaluative reports.
- Develop annual budget and manage departmental finances to meet operational and capital needs. Monitor quarterly financial statements to achieve budgetary expectations.

30% Garden Management
- Work collaboratively with colleagues on interdepartmental projects, strategic planning or special initiatives.
- Manage all staff with clear, consistent communication and a collaborative approach.
- Oversee and manage all specialized maintenance activities including watering, pruning, grooming, and pest/disease management with emphasis on sustainable, environmentally conscious practices.
- Oversee annual cut-flower displays
- Serve as team-lead for the Ninth Moon Floral Design Showcase, an annual juried floral show.
- Order and maintain tools, equipment and supplies in a timely and cost-efficient manner.
- Select and manage work with outside contractors. Develop scope of services and review contracts.
- Serve as first responder in emergency weather conditions.
- Other duties as assigned.

15% Acquisition and Collection Building
- Research appropriate species and specimen additions and seek their donation/acquisition. *
- Seek out special and authentic plants via other collections, public gardens, and collectors. *
- Seek out, acquire, and import clonal materials from Suzhou gardens (if importation is possible).
- Analyze collection, identify needs and develop strategies to meet those needs.
- Cultivate connections with nurseries, corporate institutions and individuals in order to enhance collection.
- Negotiate with potential donors to the collection.
- Provide advice for plant placement and replacement in the Garden landscape.

10% Documentation (Mapping, Accession Records, Plant Records)
  Develop and maintain accession system.
- Direct documentation of collection, including accession records and plant records.
- Maintain records of each plant’s cultural significance and symbolism. *
- Develop and maintain plant mapping system.
- Develop and implement labeling system for plant collection in Latin, English and Chinese. *
- Develop and maintain interpretative materials including seasonal bloom guides, master species list, program signage and quarterly newsletter articles.

15% Community Collaboration
- Develop and maintain partnerships with plant groups in the community, such as chrysanthemum, orchid, lotus, Penjing, jasmine, camellia, peony and gardenia groups.
- Promote relationships with botanical gardens, relevant associations, institutions, and individuals.
- Collaborate with other organizations to draw appropriate speakers and exhibits.
- Act as horticultural spokesperson for garden with media, academic publications, and broader horticultural community.
- Collaborate with Development Director to secure funding to maintain and expand the collection from granting agencies, corporations, and individuals through donations, endowment funds, or special purchases.
- Provide information as requested by garden staff.
- Evaluate plant sales for revenue generation and to respond to member/community requests.
15% Education & Interpretation

- Maintain and draw upon records of each plant’s Chinese interpretation, symbolism, cultivation stories, history, and translation. *
- Collaborate with Program Director and others to plan and design public educational events and exhibits centered on the Garden’s plant collection.
- Develop sub-collections of plants surrounding important festivals, celebrations, and themes (e.g., Chinese New Year, Mid-Autumn Festival, medicinal herbs), and integrate these collections into the Garden setting and into public events.
- Invite appropriate speakers, experts, teachers, and others to participate/present.
- Promote public and member programs together with other staff.
- Evaluate public programs, their reception and impact.
- Serve as lead resource for docent training for special botanical programs.
- Provide tours for special horticultural interest groups.

* In collaboration with Horticulture and other garden staff and partners.
