

Now Playing

This is She: the Voices of Portland's Women of Color.

This is She

For Women's History Month, come to our weekly talk series happening right here in Lan Su Chinese Garden, back by popular demand. We will feature four very successful and inspiring women from our local community. Join us as they share their stories and insights about navigating life, careers, and relationships as women of color. Listen to their experiences, ask questions, and meet them yourself! *This program is free with Lan Su admission or membership; no registration needed.

March 4th - March 26th.
Lan Su Chinese Garden

Scan here to learn more or visit:
lansugarden.org/ThisIsShe

蘭
蘇
園

SATURDAY, MARCH 4 @ 1PM - 2:30PM

This is She: Min Xiao-Fen

Min Xiao-Fen, renowned pipa soloist, vocalist and composer, shares her journey of bringing her classical training on this ancient instrument, the Chinese pipa, into contemporary music traditions as well as playing a few songs.

 1 hr 30 min

SATURDAY, MARCH 11 @ 1PM - 2:30PM

This is She: Holly Ong

Holly Ong, the Co-Founder of Sibeihø®, shares stories about her favorite Singaporean food, the inspiration behind it, and how it led to her starting Sibeihø here in Portland, Oregon.

 1 hr 30 min

SATURDAY, MARCH 18 @ 1PM - 2:30PM

This is She: Joyce Chung

Joyce Chung, known by some as the shopkeep at Goodies Snack Shop, explores her personal story of moving to Portland in 2021, her search for community, and how she ended up finding it.

 1 hr 30 min

SUNDAY, MARCH 26 @ 1PM - 2:30PM

This is She: Vanessa Gomez

Vanessa Gomez, a yoga teacher and former Division 1 college athletic trainer, opened Portland's newest yoga studio FLOW IN THE CITY. She explains that their mission is to create a place that doesn't just feel welcoming but feels like home.

 1 hr 30 min

Scan here to learn more or visit: lansugarden.org/ThisIsShe

蘭蘇園